

Lilly Network of Church-Related Colleges and Universities

The Lilly Network of Church-Related Colleges and Universities was established in 1991 to strengthen the quality and shape the character of church-related higher learning by developing leaders for church-related colleges and universities and providing opportunities for conversation about church-related higher learning. Network members represent a diversity of denominational traditions, institutional types, and geographical locations. Financial support for Network activities comes from an annual membership fee for Network schools that ranges from $2,000 to $6,500 annually, depending on the size of the institution.

Along with Postdoctoral and Graduate Fellowships, the Network sponsors a variety of activities to achieve its goals. Member schools participate in sustained conversation on church-related higher education through opportunities:

- to send two members of the campus community to attend the annual Lilly Network National Conference with all expenses paid except transportation.
- to send campus leaders to the annual Workshop for Senior Administrators completely free of charge (including travel).
- to nominate up to three of their graduating seniors or recent alums for the Lilly Graduate Fellows Program. Lilly Graduate Fellows will receive three annual $3,000 stipends for use at the Fellows' discretion.
- to apply for faculty development grants ranging from $1,500 to $12,000.
- to apply for grants to sponsor Network-funded academic programs that serve faculty from many campuses, including Regional Collaborations and Conferences, Network Exchanges, and Summer Seminars.
- to send faculty to any of these programs held on other Network campuses.
- to nominate a member of your faculty for the biennial Arlin G. Meyer Prize.
- to receive publications that include: a special issue of a Valparaiso University journal, The Cresset; the LFP newsletter network Communiqué; and a bi-monthly e-newsletter _LFP Update_.
